

Training on ICM Management and IRO Development at DIU

13 October 2022

On October 13, 2022, Daffodil International University (International Affairs) hosted a training session on International Credit Mobility (ICM) management and International Relations Office (IRO) development under the Erasmus+ Harmony CBHE project. This event aimed to provide participants with valuable insights and knowledge in managing international credit mobility programs and enhancing the capabilities of International Relations Offices within educational institutions.

The training session likely covered various topics, including:

1. ICM Fundamentals: Participants may have learned about the basics of International Credit Mobility, which involves student and staff mobility programs funded by the European Union's Erasmus+ program.
2. Program Administration: The session likely delved into the administrative aspects of managing ICM programs, such as application processes, documentation, and communication with partner institutions.
3. Quality Assurance: Ensuring the quality of international mobility programs is crucial. The training may have covered strategies for monitoring and evaluating these programs to maintain high standards.

4. Financial Management: Managing budgets and financial resources for ICM programs may have been discussed, including how to maximize funding and allocate resources effectively.
5. IRO Development: The session likely included guidance on enhancing the functions and capabilities of International Relations Offices within universities. This might involve expanding international partnerships, developing outreach strategies, and enhancing services for international students and staff.
6. Best Practices: Participants may have been introduced to best practices and success stories from other institutions that have effectively managed ICM programs and improved their IROs.

Overall, the training on International Credit Mobility management and IRO development at Daffodil International University provided valuable insights and tools for educators and administrators to enhance their international mobility programs and strengthen their International Relations Offices. This knowledge is essential in promoting global education and fostering international collaborations in the academic community.
